“Honor thy Father and Mother”

Exodus 20:12
Welcome to Watercrest!

Having worked together in senior living leadership for more than a decade, we established Watercrest with a focus on creating a sense of family within inviting, comfortably classy communities. Our barometer has been simple as we were blessed with close relationships with our grandparents well into our adult years. We cherish their stories and the wisdom they shared and their voices endure with each decision we make, honoring the sage men and women who call our communities home.

Raised by parents who were school teachers, it is our deep-seated principle to invest in our associates’ training, education and personal growth. Each day, we are humbled by their passion for service excellence and admire their authenticity as they share their unique gifts.

It is our pleasure to extend an invitation to experience all that is Watercrest by visiting any of our world-class communities to meet our most impressive distinction, our people.

We look forward to welcoming, caring for and serving you, and appreciate your trust in us.

Sincerely,

Marc Vorkapich,
Principal and CEO

Bob & Nancy Cote

Nancy has been a resident since December 5th, 2016

“My plan, of course, was to keep Nancy at home! Realizing this may not be best for both of us, I did my research. Having been a healthcare administrator for a large hospital, I had the knowledge of what to look for in a memory care community, and found confidence in Market Street.

First was standard of care - following protocol to meet Nancy’s needs. Next was quality of care – the care Nancy receives here exceeds my expectations. I also wanted quality of life for Nancy. This team keeps Nancy physically and mentally active. The sparkle in her eyes and her smile tells me she is comfortable and well cared for at Market Street.”

~ Bob Cote, husband of Nancy Cote

Float doesn’t insist upon itself. It is subtle and refined, suitable for man or woman, city or surf. The liquids in this light, spa-like line are specially formulated with certified Hawaiian deep sea water from Kona, Hawaii. Pulled from 3,000 feet below the water’s surface, this pollutant-free ingredient is full of vitamins and minerals, leaving skin healthy and radiant.

This line also features a luxurious soap with oceanic clay for a mild exfoliating effect. Sourced from Wyoming, this clay has aged for millions of years and leaves skin vibrant and smooth.
At Watercrest, we continually promote healthy lifestyles for seniors. Better health, achieved through good nutrition, regular exercise and physical activity, is the key to helping residents maintain independence. Our instructor-led healthy aging program offers a full selection of wellness enhancing activities geared to strengthening your mind, body and spirit, ensuring each resident has the opportunity to reach their highest level of independence, such as:

Tai Chi
Tai Chi is considered an internal martial art because the progressive slow movements lead to moving meditation. Whether you view Tai Chi as a fighting art, exercise, or form of meditation, practicing these relatively slow and fluid movements is said to help achieve greater longevity.

Strengthening
Every individual has their own strengths and weaknesses. Incorporating resistance bands with varying degrees of resistance into your fitness routine allows you to challenge your muscles from different angles, which helps with the motions of everyday tasks.

Seated Exercises
Seated exercises combine physical exercise with focused breathing, improving flexibility and helping reduce the risk of falls. Lowered muscle tension and reduced inflammation helps reduce pain, improving respiratory and cardiovascular health.
Healthy Breathing
Lung strength is improved with exercise, like other functions of the body. This program walks residents through a series of lung exercises designed specifically for older adults.

Balance
Seniors often struggle with a variety of concerns that can have a negative impact on their mobility. Engaging in exercise with a focus on balance can help residents enhance their strength and coordination, decreasing their risk of falling and improving reaction time.

“Ever since we moved him into Watercrest, he is enjoying his morning walks again and thoroughly enjoys the pool. Watching his grandchildren share in these moments brings tears to our eyes”.

A Clear Distinction
OUR PEOPLE

“The difference is our people.” – Marc Vorkapich, CEO

Watercrest associates answer a calling to serve seniors and their families everyday. They champion a culture which nurtures relationships in the interest of acting as trusted advisors. By continuously investing in these servant hearts, we develop value-centered leaders who deliver personalized service.

Our mission “To Welcome, To Care, To Serve” derives from four primary points of view which inspire our associates to recognize and celebrate one another’s gifts through service.

Purpose
You are equipped, prepared and directed by God for specific and significant things.

Passion
A commitment to reclaim and nurture a sense of wonder, which God placed within you.

Platform
Your life-work, friendships, family, and accomplishments elevate you to a position of prominence in the lives of the people all around you. They trust you and assign value according to your values.

Potential
God’s gifts equip us to uniquely serve and impact our world, leaving an imprint that none before or after can match. Each one of us brings our own uncommon and unique potential to the cause.
We believe wholeheartedly that a company’s real value is in its people. Together we strive to be the best-in-class senior living provider by fostering a culture where our fellow associates are appreciated for their unique contributions. “Be The Beacon” is our call to action, insuring our steadfast focus on hiring for character and consistently developing each associate’s competencies. Believing in the integrity of every team member and having confidence in each of our abilities to serve in excellence, we inspire a culture built on trust.

Hiring for Character
At Watercrest, we deploy a rigorous behavioral based interview process and are determined to discover how prospective associates’ values align with our mission and vision prior to joining the team. Selected candidates proudly display their core value on their name badge honoring a call to serve seniors. Together we celebrate what brings us together, the personal gifts of our people, and the good works ahead.

Developing and Training Competency
We believe best-in-class companies invest in developing their associates’ capabilities. That’s why we partner with Franklin Covey, a world-class leader in enabling greatness in people and organizations, to deliver an extraordinary training and development experience throughout our associates’ careers at Watercrest. Well-equipped, we serve with a genuine sense of pleasure and our residents’ loved ones can take comfort in knowing they are receiving the highest quality of care.
OUR HEARTS

Watercrest associates share a purpose and passion for serving others. As neighbors, family members, and friends, we share the emotional connection that inspires a sense of community at each of our locations.
